With more than 30 years of experience, Bryan House focuses his practice on securities litigation, internal investigations, securities enforcement proceedings, and whistleblower matters. He is a partner in the firm's Securities Enforcement & Litigation; Environmental, Social, Corporate Governance (ESG); and Government Enforcement Defense & Investigations Practices. He is also the Litigation Practice Group leader for the Midwest region (Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, and Madison offices).

Bryan's securities litigation experience includes representation of public companies and their directors and officers in class action and breach of fiduciary duty litigation. These representations regularly involve defending class actions challenging merger transactions and proxy disclosures under state fiduciary duty law and the federal securities laws. Bryan has also represented corporate clients and their officers and directors in "stock-drop" and other federal class actions alleging violations of Rule 10b-5.

Bryan has represented public and private companies, audit committees, special committees, officers, and directors in connection with internal investigations and shareholder demands regarding alleged breach of fiduciary duties, violations of the federal securities law, and whistleblower complaints. In addition to representing independent committees, he has represented companies in forming such committees to review shareholder demands.

Bryan has represented a variety of clients, including public companies, broker-dealers, underwriters, issuers, attorneys, auditors, officers, and directors in enforcement matters before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), and self-regulators, including the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA). These matters have included such diverse topics as accounting irregularities, audit failures, insider trading, market timing, options backdating, subprime loans, and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act.

Bryan has twice served on an independent consultant team approved by the SEC to provide reports regarding an issuer's compliance with an SEC settlement. In addition, he has served on an independent monitor team approved by the SEC and DOJ resulting from a settlement of allegations concerning the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.
