When trade secret disputes or employment issues threaten a business, Jessica Mason is often the first call.

A partner in the firm's Labor & Employment and Litigation practices, her talents have been recognized by Chambers USA: American's Leading Business Lawyers:

“Jessica is an outstanding lawyer. She is responsive, practical and has an excellent ability to ensure that we understand the issues and the risks as we are making decisions.” “She provides very practical advice and is very approachable.”

Clients deeply appreciate that unlike most other L&E lawyers, Jessica's “end-to-end” experiences as both a savvy trial lawyer and a trusted employment counselor give her the unique ability to craft winning strategies both in and out of the courtroom.

In Jessica's extensive unfair competition and protection of trade secrets practice, she regularly represents clients in matters relating to non-competition agreements, non-solicitation, and theft of trade secrets, including frequently defending and prosecuting applications for emergency relief. She regularly handles temporary restraining orders and temporary and preliminary injunction matters in state and federal courts across the country.

In addition to trade secret and unfair competition issues, Jessica has a deep understanding of many other aspects of employment matters, including discrimination, harassment, and retaliation cases (including claims made under Title VII and state law), and wage and hour matters.

Another valued component of Jessica's practice is her up-to-the-minute grasp of the ever-changing regulatory landscape. This knowledge allows her to design approaches to proactively position her clients for success.

She also advises employers and handles claims relating to the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and Family and Medical Leave Act as well as employment policies, EEO compliance, executive equity disputes, executive agreements and separations, and other workplace issues. In addition, Jessica also has the understanding necessary to advise clients on compliance with premises accessibility under the ADA, including website accessibility for the blind.

Jessica is also fully committed to helping clients avoid problems by regularly teaming with employers to provide guidance and training relative to preventative measures that reduce litigation, complaints, and limit liability. She often trains employers on the protection of confidential information as well as training employees on the ins-and-outs of respectful workplaces.

Trial Team

Jessica is a seasoned trial lawyer, honing her skills through jury trials, bench trials, injunctions, and other evidentiary hearings in state and federal courts throughout the country. Jessica's ability to swiftly analyze and understand complex legal issues — as well as the unique business and goals of her clients — allows her to mobilize quickly in response to emergencies, such as the need to secure or defend against emergency injunctive relief. That same analytical skill and quick thinking enables her to handle cases in any tribunal with a blend of meticulous preparation and the agility needed to navigate the unexpected twists and turns inherent in trials. Her experience in managing matters from start to finish also enables her to provide meaningful advice to her clients about the real-life risks and potential benefits of going to trial. This helps business leaders fully understand the nature of the case and make informed decisions about when settlement might be the best option. Jessica specializes in the protection of trade secrets and other unfair competition matters, along with traditional employment-related disputes. Admitted to practice in Texas and Pennsylvania, she regularly appears before courts nationwide.
