Arjun Ghosh advises clients, from individuals to multinational corporations, on a broad range of tax issues with a particular focus on international tax and transfer pricing planning. He has experience representing clients in mergers and acquisitions, fund formations, securities offerings, partnership taxation, financing transactions, structured product offerings, reorganizations, and tax equity investments across a wide array of industries that include finance, energy, crypto, technology, real estate, and pharmaceuticals. Additionally, Arjun has represented clients before the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of Justice in connection with tax controversy matters from initial audit through trial.

Prior to joining Foley, Arjun was an associate in the Tax and Political Law groups at a Washington, D.C.-based law firm. He also worked on Capitol Hill as tax counsel for Senator Kirsten Gillibrand, for whom he led the development of the first comprehensive regulatory framework for digital assets. He also served as counsel and tax policy fellow in the U.S. House of Representatives for the Committee on Ways & Means where he worked primarily on federal tax incentives for renewable energy projects.
