

Khailee Marischuk

Associate

kmarischuk@foley.com

Washington, D.C.
202.295.4010

Dr. Khailee Marischuk works with biotechnology, pharmaceutical, and medical device companies in obtaining, defending, and enforcing intellectual property rights. Her experience covers a wide range of technologies such as CRISPR-Cas9 gene editing, RNA processing and expression, and genetic sequencing and expression analysis.

During her time at the George Washington University Law School, Khailee served as a judicial extern to The Honorable Evan J. Wallach of the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. She also was an intern for the Transportation Security Administration, where she drafted patent applications for digital identity methodologies and analyzed government agreements for intellectual property concerns, including data rights and trademark licensing. Khailee and her team won first place in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office's 2023 National Patent Application Drafting Competition.

Khailee was a Foley summer associate in the class of 2022.

Presentations and Publications

- "Yours, Mine, or Ours: The Intersection between Individuals and Biotechnology Entities Regarding Property and Compensation Rights for Biological Materials," AIPLA Quarterly Journal, Volume 50, Number 4 (March 2023)

Practice Areas

- Chemical, Biotechnology & Pharmaceutical
- Intellectual Property

Education

- George Washington University Law School (J.D., high honors, 2023)
 - Recipient, Chris Bartok Memorial Award in Patent Law

- First Place, 2023 National Patent Application Drafting Competition
- Staff Editor, AIPLA Quarterly Journal
- Member, Student Intellectual Property Law Association
- Member, Asian Pacific American Law Students Association
- University of Wisconsin-Madison (M.S., 2017; Ph.D., 2019)
 - Genetics
- University of Georgia (B.S., magna cum laude with high honors, 2014)
 - Genetics

Admissions

- District of Columbia
- U.S. Patent and Trademark Office