Emma Soldon is a business litigation associate in Foley & Lardner LLP's San Francisco office.

Emma represents clients across a wide range of industries, with a particular focus on health care and insurance disputes. She has delivered winning arguments in both federal and state courts and has extensive experience arguing dispositive motions, taking and defending depositions, and developing case strategy.

Emma has successfully represented clients through all phases of litigation, from pre-suit counseling to appeals. She has secured favorable outcomes for health care providers, insurers, and other businesses in cases with significant financial and operational stakes, including high-value civil disputes and government investigations.

Emma earned her J.D. from Harvard Law School, where she was a quarter finalist in the Ames Moot Court Competition, the Teaching Fellow for Family Law, and a Senior Editor of the Harvard Law and Policy Review.
