Grace Stippich is a member of the Business Litigation and Dispute Resolution Practice Group.

Grace attended Northwestern Pritzker School of Law in Chicago, Illinois. Grace began her career at Foley & Lardner LLP as a summer associate. During law school, she served as a research assistant, teaching assistant, and managing editor of the Northwestern University Law Review. Grace also worked in the Northwestern Bluhm Immigration Clinic, assisting clients in seeking asylum and other immigration relief. In her final year of law school, Grace earned senior research honors with her project, A Backwards-Looking Framework for Antitrust Law.

Prior to attending law school, Grace studied finance at the University of Minnesota Twin Cities in Minneapolis, Minnesota. She was vice president of the school's nationally ranked parliamentary debate team and worked as both a teaching assistant and research assistant. She also worked as a legal defense intern with the Legal Rights Center in Minneapolis, where she worked closely with staff attorneys to serve low-income defendants in Hennepin County.
