Bobby Brown is a partner and real estate business lawyer with Foley & Lardner LLP. His practice includes advising clients with respect to the acquisition, disposition, development, leasing and financing of various asset classes, including multi-family, office, warehouse, retail, timberland, vacant land, various renewable energy projects (solar, wind and geothermal) and energy storage systems. He is a member of the firm's Real Estate Practice and Energy & Infrastructure Sector as well as the firm's Veterans and Allies Affinity Group.

Prior to joining Foley, Bobby served as a senior attorney at the Internal Revenue Service's Office of Chief Counsel. During his time with Chief Counsel, he provided strategic legal counsel to IRS field personnel and the IRS Office of Appeals on federal tax cases involving complex businesses and high net-worth individuals. Bobby effectively litigated 16 cases on behalf of the IRS in the U.S. Tax Court. Some of his docketed court cases involved the adversarial dissolution of an S-corporation, substantiation of basis and amounts at-risk in S corporations to permit flow-through losses, valuation of real property conservation easements, I.R.C. § 469 passive activity loss for alleged real estate professionals, and fraud.

Bobby has a distinguished military career, attaining the rank of Captain and serving more than six years in the U.S. Army. He was an Airborne Ranger and Jumpmaster with the 82nd Airborne Division when he participated in the invasion of Iraq as the executive officer of an infantry company of paratroopers. While in Baghdad, he also served on battalion staff as the battalion's human intelligence officer, where he interviewed Iraqi informants, interrogated detainees, served as the liaison to local Special Forces units, and acted as the on-ground intelligence adviser for the commanding officer during combat missions. Bobby served two tours in Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.
