Kevin Patariu combines his electrical engineering and software development background with his extensive intellectual property (IP) law experience to create tailored, cost-effective strategies that align with clients' business objectives.

Kevin assists clients with IP, data privacy, and cybersecurity issues, counting significant experience in litigation, patent prosecution, transactions, product counseling, and engineering across a wide variety of technical areas. He litigates complex IP matters throughout the United States and before the International Trade Commission (ITC), where he has effectively litigated several Section 337 investigations through trial including three consecutive wins as lead trial counsel in competitor ITC investigations between 2022-24. Kevin's accomplishments at the ITC have been recognized nationally and internationally. As counsel of record for petitioners and patent owners in over 75 inter partes review (IPR) proceedings, Kevin advises clients on the strategic use of U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) proceedings to meet their litigation objectives. He also represents clients in trademark, trade secret, trade dress, and copyright disputes, and he practices across the areas of due diligence and freedom to operate investigations, patent and trademark prosecution and counseling, preparation of infringement and validity opinions, and technology legal counseling for large and small enterprises.

A licensed professional engineer in California with years of practical experience, Kevin's deep understanding of web architectures and computing systems gives him a unique edge in advising technology clients on data privacy matters, specifically in crafting data use contractual provisions, performing product reviews, and developing privacy policies that capture how companies are collecting, storing, and using personal data. He advises clients on the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), California Privacy Rights Act (CPRA) of 2020, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), and other data use and compliance issues in a dynamic regulatory environment.

Prior to Foley, he was partner in the San Diego office of an international law firm and co-chair of its International Trade Commission Section 337 Practice. Kevin is the co-inventor of eight U.S. patents and four foreign patents in the field of data encryption/decryption and information security.

Representative Experience

ITC Section 337 Actions

- Lead trial counsel for respondents Shenzhen Carku Technology Co., Ltd., Aukey Technology Co., Ltd., Metasee LLC, Ace Farmer LLC, Hulkman LLC, and two others, in an investigation before Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Bryan F. Moore concerning portable vehicle jump-start devices and allegations of trade dress infringement, false designation of origin, false advertising, and unfair competition; initial determination of no violation of Section 337 after evidentiary hearing; affirmed by Commission after Complainant chose not to seek Commission Review, terminating investigation in favor of Respondents. Certain Portable Battery Jump Starters and Components Thereof (III), U.S. International Trade Commission Investigation No. 337-TA-1360.*
- Lead trial counsel for respondents Shenzhen Carku Technology Co., Ltd., Aukey Technology Co., Ltd., Shenzhen Gooloo E-Commerce Co., Ltd., Hulkman LLC, Metasee LLC, Ace Farmer LLC, and five others in a six-patent case before Administrative Law Judge Monica Bhattacharyya concerning portable vehicle jump-start devices; complainant dropped two patents after expert discovery; initial determination of no violation of Section 337 after evidentiary hearing based on noninfringement and invalidity of all claims; affirmed by Commission, terminating the investigation; Complainant did not appeal, ending the dispute in favor of Respondents. Certain Portable Battery Jump Starters and Components Thereof (II), U.S. International Trade Commission Investigation No. 337-TA-1359.
- Lead trial counsel for respondents Shenzhen Carku Technology Co., Ltd., 70mai Co., Ltd., Antigravity Batteries LLC, Gooloo Technologies LLC, Great Neck Saw Manufacturers, Inc., Horizon Tool, Inc., Matco Tools Corporation, Nekteck, Inc., Paris Corporation, PowerMax Battery (U.S.A.), Inc., and Shenzhen Gooloo E-Commerce Co., Ltd., in a two-patent case before Administrative Law Judge David P. Shaw concerning portable vehicle jump-start devices; complainant dropped one patent after an IPR final written decision invalidating nearly all claims (Kevin was the lead counsel in the IPR); initial determination of no violation of Section 337 after evidentiary hearing due to noninfringement and no technical domestic industry; the no technical domestic industry finding avoided a general exclusion order sought by complainant, saving an exclusion order for the entire industry, including other companies found to infringe; the commission affirmed the initial determination of no violation, terminating the investigation in favor of respondents. Certain Portable Battery Jump Starters and Components Thereof, U.S. International Trade Commission Investigation No. 337-TA-1256.
- Counsel for respondents Nintendo Co., Ltd. and Nintendo of America Inc. in a one-patent case before ALJ Shaw concerning game console systems; initial determination of no violation of Section 337 after evidentiary hearing; the commission affirmed the initial determination of no violation, terminating the investigation in favor of Nintendo; appeal to the Federal Circuit voluntarily dismissed by Gamevice, terminating the appeal. Certain Portable Gaming Console Systems with Attachable Handheld Controllers and Components Thereof II, U.S. International Trade Commission Investigation No. 337-TA-1197.*

Pro Bono

Deeply committed to pro bono service, Kevin received the 2017 Patent Pro Bono Achievement Certificate presented by the USPTO. The certificate recognizes professionals who help make the USPTO Patent Pro Bono Program available to financially under-resourced inventors and small businesses by preparing and prosecuting patent applications.

He is on the San Diego Steering Committee for California Lawyers for the Arts and the administrator of the California Inventor Assistance Program (CIAP), a USPTO pro bono program in California designed to assist financially under-resourced independent inventors and small businesses with patent applications. He is also a member of the CIAP Advisory Committee and office liaison with the California Lawyers for the Arts.

Kevin is additionally a member of the board of directors of San Diego Volunteer Lawyer Program (SDVLP), which provides free civil legal services to low-income and disadvantaged San Diegans. Kevin has successfully appealed multiple cases involving denials of Social Security disability benefits for clients referred by SDVLP. In each case, the client was found to be a person with disabilities and entitled to benefits after a hearing before an administrative law judge.
